35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 8-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is non-statutory.

Claim 8: Claim 8 is addressed to a method which produces a result of optimized class descriptions and a formulated filter. The results from performing the method of claim 8 are not tangible, and thus claim 8 is non-statutory. MPEP 2106, Section IIA states:

The claimed invention as a whole must accomplish a practical application. That is, it must produce a "useful, concrete and tangible result." State Street, 149 F.3d at 1373, 47 USPQ2d at 1601-02. The purpose of this requirement is to limit patent protection to inventions that possess a certain level of "real world" value, as opposed to subject matter that represents nothing more than an idea or concept, or is simply a starting point for future investigation or research (Brenner v. Manson, 383 U.S. 519, 528-36, 148 USPQ 689, 693-96); In re Ziegler, 992, F.2d 1197, 1200-03, 26 USPQ2d 1600, 1603-06 (Fed. Cir. 1993)).

Claim 9: Depends on claim 8.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Claim 1: Claim 1 has been amended to recite positions of “greater prominence” and “less prominence”. The general concept of “prominence”, as well as levels of prominence defined by “greater prominence” and “less prominence” are not taught in the original disclosure.

Additionally, there is no relationship taught in the original disclosure between the strength of a rule and the prominence of a position. While original disclosure does discuss the concept of having relative rule strengths, the rule strengths are not related to the concept of “prominence” or to levels of prominence.

Claims 2-7: Depend on claim 1.

Claim 8: Same rationale of rejection as claim 1.

Claims 9-17: Depend on claim 8.

Claim 18: Same rationale of rejection as claim 1.

Remarks

Applicant's arguments are moot in light of the new grounds of rejection. Although no prior art is applied, no indication of allowable subject matter is made due to the presence of new matter. This office action follows the filing of an RCE request and is made non-final.
